Made of sundried raffia palmleaves. Genuine, small scale handcrafting. Öko-Text certified dyes. Shipped by sea. Fair Trade

Mme Ravaka and Mme Rahery make roses. The workroom is on a farm on the Malagasy countryside. The material is sundried raffia palmleaves. The palmleaves are dyed with Öko-Text certified dyes or remain naturewhite. The palmleaves are split, tied together and handwoven. The woven material are cut and shaped to roses. Small bunches of raffia palmleaves are added as twigs. It is a handcraft that demands creativity, craftsmanship—and style: Weddings are a main local market for the roses. To Sweden the roses are shipped by sea. Fair Trade and sustainable beauty.
